NEXT MOVE IN CHINESE WAR UP TO REDS

Gov't Offers to Halt Hostilities and Talk Peace
& Now Awaits Communist Reaction

LEADERS ARE SILENT

Nanking, Jan. 20.—(AP)—The government tonight offered to halt hostilities and talk peace in China's civil war but left to the Communists the next move.

In north China a separate peace agreement suitable to both sides reportedly has been reached but not put into effect. This agreement would cover only that part of north China still in government hands.

The Kuomintang (government) party's powerful central political council today approved the cabinet's resolution calling for a cease fire order and the beginning of peace negotiations.

President Chiang Kai-shek has not spoken. But government spokesmen, Shen Chang-Huan, obviously speaking with Chiang's knowledge and approval, made it plain the government considers its responsibility for peace ended the time being and that it is now up to the Communists.

Chiang may override both the executive yuan and the Kuomintang.

The Communists have remained silent since their tough leader, Mao Tse-tung, last week told the national government if it wanted peace to put down its guns.

A member of the government's peace policy committee said its membership approved at a hectic meeting today the executive Yuan's previous efforts to bring about a truce.

The party council has no governmental powers but no important steps are taken without its approval.

Chiang was invited to preside over the Kuomintang political council meeting but did not attend. The right wing clique tried to block the move for a negotiated peace.

The government prepared to shift at least some of its ministries to Canton tomorrow.

Shanghai reported mixed reactions there to the peace moves. Some quarters were jubilant. Others depressed. Rice riots broke out in several sections of the city of 6,000,000 as the gold yuan's value hit a new low of $30 to the U. S. dollar. Six months ago four gold yuan were exchanged for $1.

On the fighting front itself there was little to report, except that Peking still shuddered before occasional Red shells whistling into the ancient city of culture.

PROTEST GASOLINE HIKE

Pittsburgh, Jan. 20.—(AP)—The Associated Retail Gasoline Dealers of Allegheny county declared today the proposed state gasoline tax of two cents a gallon "will adversely affect both the public and the gasoline dealer."

Howard Hess, vice president of the dealer group, said the tax increase would cause a "loss of gasoline tax revenue shift sales volume from the small legitimate dealer to cheaper grades or substitutes, and encourage 'bootleg' gasoline sales."

BID RECEIVED FOR HOSPITAL PROJECT

Harrisburg, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Bids received today by the Department of Property and Supplies included:

Warren State Hospital, hospital equipment for admission building, Hospital Supply and Waters Laboratories, Inc., New York, $13,490.

Burglary Charge Preferred As Outcome of Two Bombings

Police said today that LeRoy Churchill, 18, of 1013 Conewago avenue, will be arraigned today before Justice of the Peace Tracy M. Greenlund on a charge of burglary of the warehouse on the Bealy lease and larceny of dynamite, fuse and dynamite caps.

Churchill was arrested by police in connection with the blasts of dynamite which rocked the Warren area last weekend.

A second youth also arrested by police in connection with the blasts will go directly before Juvenile Court for a hearing. He is William Howard Hansen, 17, of 17 East Fifth avenue.

Police said the burglary and larceny charge was recommended by District Attorney M. A. Korn-

Country Without Chief 29 Minutes

Washington, Jan. 20.—(AP)—For 29 minutes today, the United States had no president.

The constitution says the presidential term shall end at noon on Jan. 20.

Technically, then, Harry S. Truman's term ended at noon and he was only a president-elect and not a president.

He officially began his new term upon taking the oath at 12:29 p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

No one in official Washington was concerned about the lapse.

Jury System Under Attack In Red Trial

New York, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Counsel for eleven Communist leaders, continuing their attack today on the federal jury system here, say they plan to call the senior U. S. district judges for questioning on the system.

The lawyers said yesterday during long argument—punctuated at times by sobs and shouts—that they would call Judge John C. Knox, the commissioner of jurors and other jury-selecting officials in the federal district.

Counsel for the Communist chiefs, charged with working for the forcible overthrow of the U. S. government, contend the method of picking federal grand juries and trial juries here is undemocratic.

Judge Harold R. Medina, presiding at the trial now in its fourth day, refused to disqualify himself or the other judges of the district as prejudiced in favor of the jury system. The Communists' lawyers charged that Judge Knox "fathered" the jury system which they contend is "illegal" and excludes persons of low intelligence.

Legendary Luck Stays With Executive On His Big Day

Washington, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Harry Truman's legendary luck stayed with him today as clear, crisp weather drew early thousands toward the scene of his inauguration.

The weather was cheerful, shivering crowds—waiting patiently for a glimpse of their president and the colorful inaugural parade. The temperature, in the middle 30s, began rising slowly under a bright sun that the weather bureau hadn't expected to shine so brightly.

New Chevies And Pontiacs Unveiled

New York, Jan. 20.—(AP)—The new Chevrolet and Pontiac went on exhibition for the public today with higher price tags as General Motors Corporation opened its first automobile show in eight years.

Restyled under big car lines, those two cars proved the hit of the million dollar General Motors show called "Transportation Unlimited."

The Chevrolet price increase averaged 7.5 per cent for all models and was 5.4 per cent on the Fleetline and 8.9 per cent on the Stylelines. Prices ranged from $1,270 to $1,760 in Flint, Mich., without taxes, handling charges or other extras.

Pontiac increases were announced last week as ranging from $40 to $60.

The biggest difference was in styling to achieve a big car look resembling previous Cadillac models with the characteristic high rear fenders and sweeping lines.

An outstanding innovation was the hard-top convertible styled to achieve a convertible look but with a metal and glass top.

At a conference with representatives of the Warren police, state police and the Warren county sheriff's office, who cooperated in the investigation which led to the arrest of the two young men.

It was pointed out that the burglary and larceny charge is the most serious that can be preferred against Churchill.

Authorities explained that the penal code of Pennsylvania includes a charge of malicious mischief with explosives, but that intention to harm a person or damage property must be proved before a person can be convicted on this charge. Both boys told police they had set off the dynamite "just for fun" and that they had no intention of injuring anyone or damaging any property.

COMMUNISTIC PHILOSOPHY IS DENOUNCED

Gigantic Bold New Program of Foreign Economic Development
Is Outlined

URGES SECURITY PACT

Washington, Jan. 20.—(AP)—President Truman today pledged a global crusade for "peace, plenty and freedom" in a blistering inaugural speech denouncing the "false philosophy" of Communism and war.

The chief executive keyed his address to the quickening struggle between the Democratic East and the Communist West.

While he cautioned that America's material resources are limited, Mr. Truman promised to draw deeply on the "inexhaustible" resources of this country's technical know-how to help free peoples everywhere.

Communism "holds that war is inevitable," Mr. Truman told massed thousands in the capitol plaza immediately after taking his oath of office for a four-year term. And even now, he said, it is endangering attempts to keep world peace.

But he declared that as a result of American efforts "hundreds of millions of people all over the world now agree with us that we need not have war."

These efforts must now be expanded, he said, to include a gigantic "bold new program" of foreign economic development, aimed at wiping out misery, hunger and despair in backward areas all over the world.

Mr. Truman listed that as one of "four major courses of action" to be stressed in coming years.

He also called for a security pact with western Europe, which he hopes to send to the senate "soon," and he promised to strengthen non-Communist countries cooperation.

Rustlers Of Cows Sought By Officials

Sheriff L. E. Linder and a member of the state police from Cory are in Ohio today tracing down the identity of one of the gang of cattle rustlers who are believed to have stolen $5,000 worth of cattle from the Edwajim farm near Columbus early Tuesday morning.

The investigation yesterday brought about tentative identification of one of the gang. It is thought that three men were involved in the attempted theft.

Officials are of the opinion that the robbery was committed by someone familiar with the barn since the animals were removed from their stalls and were among the four most valuable in the herd of 51. Two large dogs which roam the property were not heard to give any outcry, which leads authorities to believe that the robbers numbered at least one familiar person in their group.

The robbers attempted to load the cattle into a home made trailer, and succeeded in getting two of them. They later lost them near Scott's Crossing on Route 6 when the animals lurched against the side of the trailer, breaking it and being thrown out on the highway.

MAN OF THE YEAR

Pittsburgh, Jan. 20.—(AP)—The Junior Chamber of Commerce has picked Alan Magee Scaife, 49-year-old industrial and civic leader as Pittsburgh's "Man of the Year" for 1948.

Scaife, who lives in Latrobe, Pa., won the honor in 1947. Scaife is an officer or director of Scaife Co., Gulf Oil Corp., T. Mellon & Sons, and several other companies.

EIGHT-WORD WILL

"Home Town" Has a Million Dollar Blaze

Independence, Mo., Jan. 20.—(AP)—A pre-inaugural near zero weather raged through a half block of business buildings in President Truman's hometown this inauguration day, causing damage approaching $1,000,000.

The downtown fire was only eight blocks from the summer White House.

Fire Chief D. A. Kincaid said damage may run as high as $1,000,000. It was one of the worst fires in the more than 100 years of Independence's history.

No one was reported injured but 30 persons were evacuated from a residential building as the fire spread to the accompaniment of exploding small arms ammunition in a hardware store.

Five fire companies from nearby Kansas City and two from a suburban district helped four Independence companies in bringing the fire under control after a three hour battle before dawn battle in three above temperature.

Independence's 40,000 residents all were prepared to celebrate its famous son's inauguration as President. Today was a holiday. A big parade and an inaugural ball is scheduled. It was not decided immediately whether the inaugural celebration would continue as scheduled.

Evacuees from the residential building were being cared for by Red Cross workers who set up an emergency station in the sub-freezing temperatures. Most Kansas City ambulances were alerted, but they were not needed in evacuation work.

GOVERNOR AND OFFICIAL FLOAT FROM PENN'A AMONG MISSING

Washington, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Pennsylvanians by the tens of thousands and top Democratic leaders estimated, were on hand today for President Truman's inaugural.

The state's governor wasn't here, and there was no official Pennsylvania float, but the Keystone State residents made up in numbers what might have been lacking in other respects.

Normally there are always many Pennsylvanians here but to give Mr. Truman a big send off, people have poured in from the state all week by special train, special coaches, airplanes, buses and private automobiles.

Persons of all political faith participated in today's events.

But chiefly it was a Democratic party.

And it was a party with a cinderella luster because the men about whom all the fuss was being made was a Missourian whom millions had written off last summer as a dead presidentially speaking duck.

Pennsylvania, therefore, being under Republican control, as less prominently represented from an official point of view than were many other states.

Gov. James Duff informed the inaugural committee that he would be unable to attend.

And, because state floats usually are planned and paid for back home, there was no Pennsylvania float.

This disappointed some participants and spectators.

But Washingtonians and the hundreds of thousands of others who were here for the affair were not left in doubt that the birth state of the nation was joining in the observance.

Top Democratic leaders from the state arrived early in the week to share in some of the pre-inaugural activities.

Representatives of state and party leaders were on hand today for the inauguration.

OATH OF OFFICE BUT 33 WORDS LONG

Washington, Jan. 20.—(AP)—The oath of office Harry S. Truman takes today as president—the same sweeping pledge made by his predecessors over the past 160 years—is just 33 words long:

"I do solemnly swear that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States, and will to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the constitution of the United States."

It is laid down in those words in the constitution.

Armistice Is Reported In Working Stage

Rhodes, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Armistice negotiations between Israel and two Arab neighbors—Egypt and Lebanon—are reported in a decisive stage.

An authoritative source in Rhodes said last night Dr. Ralph Bunche, acting United Nations mediator, has submitted to Israel and Egypt the first draft of a compromise on the disputed Negev desert.

A reliable source in Tel Aviv said the first draft of an Israeli-Lebanese agreement was written yesterday at the Lebanese frontier village of Ras En Naqura.

Jaycees Hold Banquet And Fine Program

Sixty members of the Warren Junior Chamber of Commerce attended the January dinner meeting last evening in the YMCA in observance of National Jaycee Week.

The highlight of the evening was an address by the Honorable Allison D. Wade who spoke to the Jaycees on the topic, "Freedom."

Judge Wade was introduced by Wendell Lawson, chairman of the social committee which arranged last night's banquet.

Also on the program was the appearance of the Chord Cadets, local barbershop quartet which presented a group of songs. Members of the Chord Cadets are James Cruckshank, Earl Erickson, Boyd Sanden and Roger Hendrickson.

The meeting closed with the showing of colored slides of Christmas displays in Berwick, Bloomsburg, and Warren. The local slides were made by Sherry Adams while the others were brought here through the efforts of Harry Cooper.

Following the dinner at 6:30, a short business session was conducted by President Chuck Trenter. Francis Buchanan, Christmas project chairman gave a final report on the recent activity and also reported on the Jaycee state board of directors meeting held last weekend in Harrisburg.

HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS OF FELLOW CITIZENS WITNESS SWEARING IN OF EXECUTIVE

Washington, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Harry S. Truman took on leadership of the nation for four more years today with a pledge to strive for world "peace, plenty and freedom."

In a fighting inaugural speech, he branded Communism the chief threat to those aims and the breeder of war.

It was the climactic moment of inauguration day for the 64-year-old, one-time Missouri farm boy who, over all odds, had won the White House term in his own right.

He accepted that term by placing his left hand on Bibles opened to the Beatitudes and the Ten Commandments, raised his right hand to God, and swore to serve the nation faithfully in the uncertain years ahead.

Chief Justice Vinson administered the oath. The scene was the east front of the capitol, bathed in the brilliant sparkle of a bright winter sun.

Just before Mr. Truman, Alben W. Barkley, 71-year-old veteran Kentucky senator, was sworn in as vice president.

Within immediate range of Mr. Truman's voice from the steps of the capitol were thousands of Americans. By radio, millions of others in this country and abroad heard him. Television carried the scene as far west as the Mississippi.

Stretching along Pennsylvania avenue to see the after-ceremony parade were an estimated million people or more.

Mr. Truman turned from the solemn oath-taking to address the nation and the world. He proposed two main lines of attack against the Communist threat.

His speech today raised the probability of yet another message to outline in more detail the "bold program" for economic aid to the more than half the people of the world who he said are living in conditions approaching misery.

Diplomats of many lands were present to hear him.

From all over America, his backers and well-wishers came to share the excitement and glory of inauguration day.

They packed along the national capital's main drag, lined up to witness to their every glimpse of the president. They ate hot dogs and drank pop from stands which sprouted on corners.

An air of carnival reigned.

For a few moments, Mr. Truman turned his back on it all. Two hours before the oath-taking ceremony, he went with Mrs. Truman and their daughter, Margaret, to St. John's Episcopal church across Lafayette Park from the White House.

There, he bowed his head and heard the Rev. C. Leslie Gray pray for him, for the congress, for social justice, for the family of nations and for "those we love."

St. John's is the same church where the late Franklin D. Roosevelt used to worship on his inauguration days.

Mr. Truman was up with the dawn for this day of days in his 64 years.

He found the skies clear and the sun bringing out the best of the weather, strongly helping the weather man's prediction of partly cloudy.

"It looks like old man weather is going to be with us again," the president commented to reporters when he stepped out of Blair house at 6:50 a. m.

He was up so early for two reasons: 1. He likes to get up early and 2. He had a breakfast with the surviving men who fought with him in "Battery D" of World War I days.

These old soldiers, sitting down together at the Mayflower Hotel, ate Missouri ham and hominy grits.

And, as old soldiers will do, they got off some remarks about their changed physical condition since their fighting days.

Harry Enjoys Frolic With Old Buddies of World War I

Washington, Jan. 20.—(AP)—There were about 100 battery members there as guests of the man they knew in the old days as "Captain Harry."

When he entered the room someone addressed him as "Mr. President." But he cut that off by saying: "We'll have none of that here. I'm Captain Harry."

There was little ceremony at the breakfast. The battery's old chaplain, Msgr. L. Curtis Tiernan, pronounced grace at the president's request.

The president called the early breakfast "turnout—the greatest compliment that could be paid a man."

The president was in a happy frame of mind despite only four, and a half hours sleep. He invited reporters in and told them: "These fellows are real. They don't have no axes to grind. They don't want any jobs. They don't call me Mr. President. They call me Captain Harry."

For each guest, the president had a personally autographed picture signed, "With kindest regards to — Harry S. Truman—1/20/49."

Technicolor Musical Attraction "Words and Music" at The Library Theatre Friday Through Tuesday

Taking the lives and music of one of America's greatest song-writing teams—Richard Rodgers and Lorenz (Larry) Hart—as the basis of a film plot, M-G-M has turned out a wonderful, star-spangled Technicolor entertainment in "Words and Music," the jubilation offering Friday through Tuesday at the Library Theatre.

In picking out the prize items of the various Rodgers and Hart shows as production numbers in "Words and Music," M-G-M has enlisted the services of its top-talented song and dance stars. Space limits mention of all the numbers in this prodigious entertainment feast, but among the highlights are June Allyson's version of "You Swell" with the dancing Blackburn Twins. Perry Como's singing, such as never-to-be-forgotten ballads as "Blue Room" and "With a Song in My Heart" and the happy teaming of Judy Garland and Mickey Rooney in "I Wish I Were in Love Again." Miss Garland is also in great form with the resounding "Johnny One Note."

Then there are Lena Horne singing the haunting "Where or When" Ann Southern in a sparkling scene done to the tune of "Where's That Rainbow," Cyd Charisse and Dee Turnell in the lovely "Up On Your Toes" ballet, Betty Garrett's inimitable "There's a Small Hotel" and Mel Tormé singing "Blue Room." Add to this a dozen more of the brilliant Rodgers and Hart song hits, and the thrilling "Slaughter" on Tenth Avenue' dance-drama done by Gene Kelly and Vera-Ellen and you have some idea of the wealth of musical material offered in this star-and-song-studded new offering.

EPOCH IN STORY-BOOK CAREER

Jaunty, confident Harry S. Truman became President of the United States today for four more uncertain years.

And for his inauguration, according to dispatches from Washington, America put together the greatest national pageant in all its history.

Beneath all the gayety and excitement, the most Washington has stirred up in many a year, there was an undertone of solemnity, and dignity.

For at this supreme moment in the story-book career of the one-time Missouri farm boy there rested on him the eager expectations of millions of Americans for more bounteous blessings, and hopes of an uneasy world for peace in our time and peace for all time.

And peace was the theme everybody expected in advance in Mr. Truman's inaugural address.

That --- and a "fair deal" at home --- was what he hammered on hardest in a rousing campaign that produced one of the biggest upset victories in American politics.

He has driven his theme home in message after message to Congress. He has emphasized it anew in informal chats at other inaugural festivities.

He repeated it last night at a dinner given him by the Electoral College --- an ancient institution he says he wants to preserve unchanged. The chief executive seemed once more to underscore his will for peace in selecting the Ten Commandments and the Beatitudes as the Biblical passages on which to steady his left hand while taking the oath of office for the world's most trying job: "Thou shalt not kill" --- "Blessed are the peacemakers --- for they shall be called the children of God."

Four years ago Harry Truman took the vice presidential oath and Franklin D. Roosevelt was sworn in for his fourth term as president. That was a wartime ceremony on the south portico of the White House, with only a few thousand people looking on by special invitation.

Three months later, Mr. Roosevelt died. Mr. Truman took on what he said was an "almost unbearable burden." But now at 64 his doctors say he's "fit."

Today he is more self-confident, as one writer has described him, the choice of the people for a full term in his own right, a man with a trace of stubbornness and a large order of loyalty and sentiment.

MARCH OF DIMES PROCLAMATION

A special proclamation appealing to every citizen of Warren county to "join zealously" in the 1949 March of Dimes campaign has been issued by Burgess William Crossett and is printed in full elsewhere in this issue today.

The proclamation discloses that more than 100,000 polio cases have occurred during the past six years and that, in coping with last summer's severe outbreaks, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has exhausted its emergency epidemic aid fund.

"The 1949 March of Dimes," says Burgess Crossett, "provides the only means by which the National Foundation and its chapters may continue to fight infantile paralysis, by aiding those stricken while financing research to join zealously in making the 1949 March of Dimes the most successful in local history."

It is also noted, in conjunction with other announcements concerning the 1949 collections, that a new drug, myanesin, which relaxes painfully contracted muscles, may be a valuable adjunct in the treatment of polio.

Studies of the orally-administered drug have been conducted at the University of Rochester with March of Dimes funds, and, in the majority of cases, the drug was successful in relaxing rigid or spastic muscles and permitting earlier and fuller use of physical therapy in treatment of the cases.

Unlike curare, the Indian arrow-poison drug used occasionally for the same purpose, myanesin produces no serious side-effects, the research report indicates.

HERE and THERE

This And That: Fifty years ago this week, we note in the files of the Evening Mirror—"At the annual meeting of the Conewango Club the following officers were chosen for the ensuing year: President, F. H. Rockwell; vice president, W. E. Rice; secretary, S. W. Waters; treasurer, W. C. Watson; house committee, E. D. Wetmore, J. L. Jensen and Theodore Messner." While Warren and Franklin look like the teams to beat in Section 2, the "Titusville Herald" warns "don't count Hud Wells' Oil City Oilers out of the race. The Oilers started slow last season, then were in the race right down to the finish." ... The biggest inaugural celebration in history reached its climax in Washington today when Harry S. Truman stepped up and swore he will do his best on the toughest job in the world. At least 100,000 were on hand to listen and crane their necks for a better view, and millions of others listened and watched by radio and television. According to dispatches 100 planes roared overhead. Tanks, jeeps, guns crawled down historic Pennsylvania avenue. Marching along with them were cadets from West Point, the midshipmen from Annapolis. But there was also a carnival atmosphere. Bands, floats, pretty girls; a steam calico, pulled by eight horses, belching forth "The Missouri Waltz." The National Broadcasting Company estimated that 10,000,000 people, as far west as St. Louis, would see the first inauguration ever to be televised. Two people out of every three in the U. S., or 100,000,000 probably heard it described over the radio. An estimated 1,000,000 were in Washington in person to see the inauguration, or the parade or both. Perhaps 500,000 of these were visitors from out of town. The crowd was expected to eat 5,000,000 hotdogs, or enough, one mathematician figured, to make a hotdog 476 miles long. It was expected to gulp down barrels of coffee and soft drinks. It did not throw confetti or carry toy guns, because that was against the law. ... Preliminary steps are being taken toward the formation of a Cub pack to be sponsored by the Seneca PTA Council. ... Officials of both the American Legion and VFW Posts are experiencing difficulty securing men in sufficient numbers to officiate at military funerals, we are told, mainly because of the fact that members who would be willing and pleased to serve cannot lose time off from work without pay deductions. Seems as though a little cooperation on the part of employers would overcome this difficulty. It is a surprising and regrettable situation, and one that may be remedied with the right kind of negotiations.

P. O. Department Warns Of "Spanish Prisoner" Swindle

The "Spanish Prisoner" Swindle is a fraudulent scheme that has been operated for many years by confidence swindlers from foreign countries, most recently from Mexico.

The swindlers obtain lists of names and addresses of business and professional people, manufacturers, and others residing in the United States. Recently such letters have been sent to large dairy farms. Letters are written to these persons to induce them through offer of a reward to come to the foreign country with a sum of money to be used in securing the release of certain papers which can be negotiated for a large fortune, usually between $185,000 and $449,000, alleged to be concealed in the bottom of a trunk in a customhouse in the United States. Usually one-third of the amount claimed to be hidden in the trunk is promised the prospective victim for his financial assistance in the recovery.

A person responding to the swindlers' initial letter, and who indicates an interest in the proposition, is sent a second letter which contains what the promoters refer to as "undeniable evidence" of the circumstances resulting in the sentence to prison for bankruptcy. The "undeniable evidence" consists of false newspaper clippings telling of the prisoner's arrest, papers purporting to of his case by the court, and a letter giving detailed instructions regarding the trip to the foreign country. If the intended victim complies with the swindlers' instructions he is relieved of his funds, by trickery or violence, after his arrival.

The Postmaster General issues fraud orders against the various names used by the swindlers as soon as the names are brought to the attention of the Post Office Department. A fraud order serves to prevent the dispatch of mail from the United States to the promoters of this scheme. Effort is also made to punish in the courts of the United States those responsible for the swindle.

Recipients of any such letters should transmit them to postmasters for reference to post office inspectors.

With more and more privately owned land in Pennsylvania being cleared to public hunting by the owners, increasing pressure will be placed upon public lands to furnish the variety and abundance of wildlife demanded by the ever increasing throng of hunters and fishermen.

The Allegheny National Forest, with its gross acreage of 700,000 acres and a net acreage of 470,000 acres, offers an exceptional opportunity for a large forest wildlife-production unit. This block of nearly one-half million acres of public owned lands is available and only awaits the working out of a plan between sportsmen, the State Game Commission, and the U. S. Forest Service to start this much needed program.

Before discussing the manner in which such a wildlife-production unit could be expected to function, it would be well to review the past history of the wildlife resources, and the habitat, in the area now embraced by the Allegheny National Forest. This forested area suffered severely from unregulated logging practices and repeated large fires following logging. At the same time uncontrolled hunting reduced the big game population drastically and exterminated some species of game. With such a vast acreage of old growth forest cut over, in these early lumbering operations, abundant food soon developed from sprouts and seedlings which came into the openings. This low growing cover favored ruffed grouse and deer. Due to the early stocking program by the Pennsylvania Game Commission and such an abundance of food, the deer multiplied very rapidly. The destruction of the old growth forest, however, reduced the habitat of the wild turkey, squirrel and raccoon. The third stage in the habitat has been reached now with the rapid re-growth from cut-over brush land to old sized forest during recent years. Such a rapidly changing environment from virgin forest to cut-over brush land to old stand forest has provided a rather unstable wild-life habitat. These second growth forests now present in many places a clean forest floor almost free of any understory or available deer food. Such a situation becomes critical during the winter time for deer. Game drives made during 1935 and 1936 indicated a deer population of from 0 to 142 animals per 1,000 acres. The peak deer population for the Allegheny Forest was approximately one animal per ten acres. Had deer populations then kept in balance with the available feed one deer per 50 acres would probably have been somewhat in line with the long term capacity of the range. However, this was not accomplished and progressive range deterioration resulted so that it is doubtful if such a stocking could be maintained.

Next week's column will be devoted to the effect of present cutting practices on deer food production.

"Icebound"

Walter Hampden, host on the "Great Scenes from Great Plays" program, congratulates Cornel Wilde, young actor and playwright, on his performance of the Pulitzer Prize play, "Icebound", which is this week's selection for the series being presented by the Protestant Episcopal Church and the Episcopal Actors' Guild. The popular Owen Davis work will be broadcast this Friday at 4 p. m. over Station WNAE and at 8 p. m. over the MBS hookup.

Suicide, without evidence of insanity, is considered a felony in England, and all property left is taken by the state. It is estimated that approximately 10 per cent of the hay crop of the United States is destroyed by fire every year.

Brokenstraw Game and Fish Club Meets

About 75 members of the Brokenstraw Fish and Game Club were present for the regular January meeting held last evening in Youngsville Fire Hall to hear Elmer Pilling, retired game protector, deliver an exceptionally fine address on wild rabbits. Mr. Pilling has made an extensive study of this type of small game.

The membership committee reported that approximately 100 new members have been secured by the Club in the current membership drive. The date for the annual meeting of the Club was announced as set for Wednesday, April 6, in Youngsville high school gymnasium, the program to be announced later.

Directors for 1949 were appointed by President Gurney Ball and include the following: Frank Hendrickson, Ivan Warner, L. W. Hull, W. J. Kay, G. M. Sanford, Mervin Craft, R. M. Freeborough, Victor Arico, R. C. Bailey, Robert York, Mark Summerson, Richard Hutley, L. M. Johnson, Kenneth Franklin and Harry Freeborough.

Mervin Craft was given the club award for the member killing the deer with the largest spread and most points, $5 on each count. The deer entered by Mr. Craft had a spread of 17 1/2 inches and nine points.

Junior members of the organization, have been trapping rabbits in the borough for re-stocking in surrounding territory, reported a take of 10 rabbits to date. In a report of the Northwest Division meeting held at Meadville during December, Len Donaldson, who represented the Warren County Federation of Sportsmen, presented two resolutions on behalf of Warren County.

The next meeting of the Brokenstraw Club will be held on Wednesday, February 16.

AKELEY

Algot Lundgren, of the Lundgren Motor Sales, has returned from Washington, D. C., where he attended a dealer meeting and preview of the new 1949 Chevrolet cars that will be shown by dealers, January 22. At the regional dealer pre-showing, our local dealer was joined by approximately 800 other Chevrolet dealers. They were entertained at a luncheon. Mr. Lundgren stated that the new cars mark a high point of modern styling and beauty. They are all looking forward for the day to come to display this new car.

Twenty Grange members from here attended Valley Grange and installed officers for 1949. Mrs. Hazel Hale submitted to a major operation at Warren General Hospital Tuesday. Her many friends will be glad to hear that she is improving.

Remember, when You buy MEAT

It's not the Price per Pound that Counts Most . . . It's What You Get for Your Money!

Meat isn't a good buy at any price unless it's tender, juicy and full of flavor. That's the only kind of meat that gives you your money's worth of good eating. And it's the only kind you'll find at your A&P. Our eagle-eyed experts see to it that by selecting nothing but fine-quality beef, pork, veal and lamb, and bringing it to you in A-1 condition. What's more, every "Super-Right" cut you buy is trimmed to remove excess bone and fat before it's weighed and gives you greater value. No wonder we sell such huge quantities of "Super-Right" meats that we can afford to take only a small profit per pound and keep our prices as low as market costs permit! No wonder everybody's raving about A&P's money-saving "Super-Right" meats!

One of these ingredients works immediately. Right from the first tablet it acts to relieve the horrible burning of stomach acids. Another of its properties carries the anti-acid action into the intestinal tract. And still another protects the delicate and irritated membranes by a pain-relieving coating action.

D. J. Garwood's Private Formula is available in handy tablets. It has included in it an ingredient which helps Nature herself to alkalize your stomach content and bring prompt symptomatic relief. That is why this formula has such amazing results. You, too, can join that vast group who have found it possible—after many years—to enjoy a normal meal, without extreme pain.

Now D. J. Garwood's Tablets Are Offered on a Money-Back Guarantee!!

State Health Nurses Make Annual Report

Reports for 1948 compiled by the state public health nurses at their office in the city building indicate a very busy year. The nurses are Lenore Thurston, RN, who is county supervisor; Mrs. Gladys Trussler, RN, and Mrs. Doris Byers, who works in the vicinity around her newly-established office in Tidoute.

Included in their summary of activities are the following activities:

There were 52 venereal clinics with Dr. Paul Stewart as clinician; two orthopedic clinics conducted by Dr. Arthur Davis of Erie; 84 child health clinics in the county, with Dr. Paul Stewart and Dr. John Larson in Warren, Dr. Frank Buckingham in Tidoute, Dr. Thomas McHenry in Sheffield and Dr. A. A. Grant in Sugar Grove.

A total of 1,351 children attended these clinics and 439 toxoid injections were given. At these clinics, babies are weighed and measured, and given an examination if the mother desires it. Mothers are helped with feeding problems and advised about the care of the children. They are termed "well baby clinics", designed to keep the well baby well.

The nurses assisted at 51 chest clinics conducted by Dr. Stewart, where all contacts received chest X-rays, all active cases are kept under observation and given periodic check-ups. There were also 52 pneumothorax clinics at Warren General Hospital, with Dr. Albert Eberly in charge.

Three series of classes for expectant mothers were held during the year, with lectures on care for mother and child.

All school physical examinations in fourth class districts were attended by the state nurses and follow-up work is another phase of their school work. Corrections include tonsil removals, hernia repair, eye examinations and glasses for the needy, teeth corrections and many other needs.

All polio cases, old and new, are visited and care secured for them through the March of Dimes.

The nurses express their gratitude to all who have made it possible for them to carry on their work by contributions of money, clothing and food for the needy.

They would also like to thank the Men's Club of the VFW Children's Fund, the Needlework Guild, Warren Relief Association, Young Mothers Club, the May E. Stone Class of the First Presbyterian church, Lions Club, doctors and other individuals who have contributed so liberally to the help of the less fortunate of the county.

MARCH OF DIMES

Infantile paralysis is believed to be older than the Pyramids of Egypt. An English physician, Dr. M. Underwood, for the first time in 1789 recognized it as a separate disease which usually attacked children with paralyzing effect.

Polio Milestones

Establishment of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis in 1938 mobilized an entire nation to fight a single disease. Today, scientists in scores of the nation's leading research laboratories and medical schools seek a preventive or cure.

First Wedding In Sanford Church Is Of Interest Here

The first wedding ceremony ever performed in the Sanford Evangelical United Brethren church took place at 2:30 p. m. January 8, when Betty Jean, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Pierce, of Sanford, was united in marriage with Marshall A. Danielson, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Bennett Danielson, Youngsville, R. D. 1.
The altar was decorated with evergreens and white mums, against a background of lighted candles.
The double ring ceremony was performed by the bride's pastor, Rev. David Osterander, assisted by the bridegroom's pastor, Rev. Earl Carlson, of Youngsville.
Preceding the ceremony, Charles Hutchings of Warren, played traditional wedding music and accompanied Mrs. Norman Pierce as she sang "I Love a Little Cottage," "Because" and "At Dawning." During the ceremony, as the couple knelt, Mrs. Pierce sang "The Lord's Prayer," given in marriage by her father, chose a street length dress of winter white and brown accessories. Her pearl necklace was the bridegroom's gift and her corsage was a purple orchid.
Her only attendant was Mrs. Arthur Hatch, Titusville, who wore beige with black accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.
The best man was Ronald Carlson, friend of the bridegroom, and ushers were Norman Pierce, the bride's brother, and Howard Ristau, the bridegroom's brother-in-law.
The bride's mother wore toast brown with black accessories and Mrs. Danielson wore black with white accessories. Mrs. Grace Brown, grandmother of the bridegroom, wore black. Each had a corsage of pink roses.
Immediately following the ceremony, an informal reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, when about 60 guests were served.
The bride is a graduate of Youngsville High School, Class of '46, was employed at the Bank of Jamestown, Jamestown, N. Y., and more recently, in the Metzger-Wright Company office in Warren.
Mr. Danielson attended Sugar Grove High School and served 22 months with the armed forces overseas. He is employed by the Penn Furnace and Iron Company.
The newlyweds are now at home to friends, after a short wedding trip, at 16 West Fifth avenue, Warren.

Plaintiffs In Damage Suit Win Verdict

A verdict for damages in the amount of $10,000 and another in the amount of $7,000 for pain and suffering was awarded by a jury to Whitney S. Hammett in the larger amount and Mary Hammett in the lesser amount, as a result of their suit against the estate of Alton Swanson, Sr., yesterday in a special session of civil court presided over by Judge Allison D. Wade.

The suit arose out of a fatal automobile accident on the Youngsville-Pittsfield road in August, 1946, in which Mrs. Hammett was a passenger in a car operated by William H. Stewart and owned by Ella M. Wright, and in which Mr. Swanson, Mrs. Stewart and Mrs. Wright were killed.

Suits against the estates of Mrs. Stewart and Mrs. Wright, by the same plaintiffs, were ordered thrown out by Judge Wade because of the opinion of the court that no negligence was shown on the part of either lady's operator or owner of the automobile involved. Swanson was driving the oncoming car owned by William Henry Cough, which hit the one operated by Mrs. Stewart.

A third suit against the owner of the car operated by Swanson, in which a collateral proceeding will be instituted and in which the issues will be the same, was continued in order to avoid duplicity of litigation, it was announced by Judge Wade.

Hundreds of Thousands of Fellow Citizens Witness Swearing in of Executive

Some shopkeepers boarded up windows to keep the crowds from surging through.

Flags hung from every light pole and nearly every building.

In front of the White House was another white, wooden stand for Mr. Truman to review the part of the parade trailing him from the capitol.

Stretching out on either side were the seals and flags of the 48 United Nations.

Left over for late afternoon (5 P. M. EST) was a presidential reception at the National Gallery of Art.

And tonight comes the inaugural ball in a two-acre National Guard Armory, with the president in white tie and tails, Mrs. Truman in black velvet and their daughter in a puff of Margaret-pink tulle.

ting with American security plans by providing them U. S. military advice and equipment.

His proposed new program for improving conditions in the areas which might offer a breeding place for Communism amounted to a call for a new front in the cold war. In this endeavor the cooperation of allied nations would be "warmly welcomed," the president said.

The "Truman plan" for world betterment constituted the only new point in the president's four main courses of foreign policy action. Under the other three this nation would:

1. Continue "unflinching support to the United Nations" and search for ways to strengthen it.

2. Continue programs for world economic recovery; first, through the European Recovery Program; second, by increasing world trade.

3. Strengthen "freedom-loving nations against the dangers of aggression." Mr. Truman flatly promised: "We will provide military advice and equipment to free nations which will cooperate with us in the maintenance of peace and security."

While the president nowhere named Russia outright in his scathing attack on Communism, his words apparently ended any possibility of quick and easy compromise between the Soviet Union and the west.

county and city Democratic organizations are here by the scores.

Labor groups came for the show also, one whole train-load of them having arrived yesterday from Pittsburgh on the Philip Murray Special named for the leader of the CIO.

But, because the state is so comparatively close, many thousands of others drove in their cars or hopped aboard one of the many regularly scheduled trains, buses and airplanes that provided almost commuter service between Pennsylvania and Washington.

Rustlers of Cows Sought By Officials

Missouri bring to life once again the old American legend that any farm boy can become president.

Today, Washington was a city that had put aside everything for his hour of triumph—gay, fluttering with flags, and crammed with an excited million people.

Vendors hawked programs, Truman buttons, and souvenirs. Hot dogs sold for 20 cents. Grandstands along the parade route on Pennsylvania avenue were sold out days ago. Standing room only was the lot of other tens of thousands.

Government workers and visitors prized their window "assignments." Some paid $12 a head just for a brief glimpse of Mr. Truman and a look at the two and a half hour parade.

'Pen Pal' Romance Chills

Auburn-haired Monique Rose, of Paris, France, shown above with her erstwhile "pen pal," Rudy Finamore, at his home in Sharon, Pa., may face a lawsuit for her elopement with a third party, Louis Dellacore, of Mass. Rudy's parents scraped up $300 to bring the 19-year-old French beauty to Sharon after the "pen pals" had corresponded for three years. Now Monique is honeymooning with Dellacore in West Virginia; Rudy's parents want their $300 back, and Rudy is just glad it happened "before we made the mistake of getting married."

Rent Official Cites Laws About Veterans' Preference

Veterans preference placards for posting on all new homes being constructed for sale or for rent are ready for distribution to builders at the Erie Area Rent Office. It was announced today by Area Rent Director Frank M. Anderson.

He emphasized that the posters are required by the current federal law that gives veterans first chance at newly-constructed homes.

The red, white and blue cards state: "During construction and for 30 days after completion thereof, these accommodations will be offered exclusively to veterans of World War II."

Underneath this announcement is a statement of the rent per month, or the sales price of the dwelling, with the name, address and phone number of the builder, or his agent.

There is this concluding statement: "This placard must be filled out and posted as required under the veterans preference regulation issued under the Housing and Rent Act of 1948."

"The preference extends to veterans or their families," Mr. Anderson said, "and under it no person may sell a single family residence, unless built for owner-occupancy, completed after June 30, 1947 unless he first gives veterans preference in the purchase of the dwelling during the period of construction and for 30 days after completion."

"Unless already sold or rented to veterans, such housing must be publicly advertised by newspaper exclusively to veterans or their families on at least three days during the first 20 days of the 30-day preference period. It must contain the same information as required on the placard."

The rent official added that the placard is issued for the convenience of builders, who heretofore were obliged to prepare their own posting card. They may still use their own card, but some placard with the required wording is mandatory, he said.

Blood Plasma Distribution Is Completed

Harrisburg — Distribution of dried blood plasma by the Pennsylvania Department of Health to hospitals and health agencies of the Commonwealth has been terminated, Dr. Morris W. Vaux, State Secretary of Health, said today.

The dried blood plasma was collected and processed by the American Red Cross for use by U. S. Armed Forces during the most recent World War. With the end of the war the Red Cross announced that its large accumulation of dried blood plasma would be allocated to the State Health Departments which in turn would make their own distribution of the plasma.

Dr. Vaux said the Red Cross had informed the Health Department by telegram that the supply of dried blood plasma has been exhausted bringing an end to its distribution to the Health Departments of the country as of December 31, 1948.

A letter from Walter F. Heintzelman, Chief of the Department's Division of Biologicals and Supplies, to the 222 State distributors of the plasma asked that any out-dated blood plasma be returned to Mr. Stanleigh Swan, Director of Supplies, Eastern Area, American Red Cross, 615 Asaph Street, Alexandria, Virginia.

The State Health Department began its disbursement of dried blood plasma in March of 1946. From that time until the end of 1948 a total of 89,313 units of the plasma were shipped by the Department to local distributors in Pennsylvania.

The plan provided a readily available supply of the plasma to every acceptable hospital for instant use in the treatment of any patient without charge for the product.

Dried blood plasma, one of the greatest of modern medical discoveries, saved the lives of thousands of soldiers and sailors suffering from shock as a result of compound fractures, intestinal lesions, severe burns, etcetera.

TIDIOUTE

Tidioute, Jan. 20—Mountain Grange held its annual holiday party in the Grange hall, with a pleasant social time and exchanging of gifts.

About 22 members attended the meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church, held at the home of Miss Anna Grandin. In the absence of the president, Mrs. J. E. Taggart, first vice president, conducted the session. Mrs. Taggart also had charge of the devotion, Miss Laura Smutz was in charge of the program, and Mrs. Urban read very ably the play "No East or West." The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Karl Merkle, Mrs. Clyde Delhousen and Mrs. Floyd Swanson, served refreshments, with Mrs. Emma Jennings and Miss Martha Jennings presiding at a beautifully appointed table.

Tidioute friends of Forman Schreiber were shocked to learn of his death in Franklin.

Lady Jane Rebekah Lodge held its annual holiday party in the lodge rooms, when members were entertained by Mrs. Ida Euck, who played two lovely piano solos; Janet Schwab sang "Every Day I Love You" and "Oh Marie"; Mary Ella Birchard sang "Now Is The Hour" and "My Happiness." Hilary Kay, the youngest vocalist of the evening, sang two beautiful Christmas carols and Fred Storer, with his guitar and singing completed a very enjoyable evening.

Sports Stars Are Honored By Magazine

New York, Jan. 20—(AP)—Bill Veeck, dynamic president of the world champion Cleveland Indians, wants the major leagues to stage special baseball games and contribute the profits for the promotion of sandlot baseball.

Veeck made the suggestion last night in a speech highlighting the first annual awards dinner of Sport Magazine during which 11 sports stars, voted outstanding in their particular field in 1948, were honored.

"We're all looking to help the youth of America. We all want to stamp out juvenile delinquency. Let's do something practical then, let's play games, with the receipts to go to sandlot kids. If we have no playgrounds, then we have juvenile delinquency."

Honored were:

Racing—Citation, winner of racin's triple crown.

Baseball—Lou Boudreau, manager of the World Champion Cleveland Indians, who also was named athlete of the year.

Boxing—Marcel Cerdan of France, world middleweight champion.

Basketball—Alex Groza, University of Kentucky.

Professional football—Frankie Albert, San Francisco 49ers.

Golf—Ben Hogan, U. S. open and P.G.A. champion.

Hockey—Buddy O'Connor, New York Rangers, winner of the Lady Byng trophy.

Swimming—Joe Verdeur, of Philadelphia, Olympic record holder.

Tennis—Jack Kramer, world's professional champion.

Track—Harrison Dillard of Baldwin-Wallace, world's record holder in hurdles who won Olympic 100-meter sprint title.

STUDIO FIGHT FOR TELEVISION IS HERE

New York, Jan. 20—(AP)—The day of studio fights for television in New York is practically here.

The "crowd" of 1,297 which paid only $3.42 to see the Tournament of Champions' first New York offering at Manhattan Center would have fited neatly into almost any studio in town.

The disappointment of the reorganized T-of-C group, now owned partly by the Columbia Broadcasting System, was shared by the handlers of Rusty Payne, the negro heavyweight contender from Pittsburgh, who was stopped at Pittsburgh last October.

Payne weighed 181½, Sheppard 203.

Panthers Triumph Over Red Raiders

Sigworth and Hampson led the winners with nine-point totals, while Morley and Shanshala were high for the Raiders with six points each.

Score by quarters:

Panthers 4 11 11 9—35
Raiders 12 6 4 6—28

TRIPLETT SIGNS

Detroit, Jan. 20—(AP)—The Detroit Lions of the National Professional Football league today announced the signing of Wallace Triplett, Penn. State halfback.

Triplett, who played three seasons with Penn State, was one of the Lions' draft choices. The Lions said he will be graduated in June.

CORYDON

Corydon, Jan. 19—Mrs. Emma Peelmen was guest of honor at an enjoyable birthday party tendered her by the Foreign Missionary Society at the Nazarene church and held at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Eugene Crooks.

The affair marked the 78th anniversary of Mrs. Peelmen's birth and she was presented a birthday cake and other gifts. The work meeting of the Society took place, also, with quilting occupying the time following dinner.

Mothers of the Friday club met at the home of Mrs. George Prie. Three tables of five hundred were in play and awards were made to Mrs. Lottie Whyte, high; Mrs. Jessie Bennett, second; Mrs. Lida Wilcox, traveling token; Mrs. Glendine LaDow, consolation.

The semi-monthly meeting of the Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist church was held with Mrs. Clyde LaDow. In the absence of the president, Mrs. J. K. Crooks, Ruth Crooks, presided.

MURDER GETS AROUND

Chapter 29

GOLDELOCKS came in in a hurry, slammed the door shut and went three or four steps along the foyer. Then she stopped dead like a little wild animal suddenly sensing danger. I was in back of her, of course, and saw her stiffen rigid. She had spotted the busted coffee table, and the liquor-soaked scatter rug, and maybe Parrish's feet sticking out from behind the sofa.

"Hello, Zara," I said pleasantly. For the briefest part of an instant she didn't move. Then she whirled in a flash, diving her hand into her coat pocket and out with a little French derringer pistol. But I was right on top of her then. I had her wrist, and was twisting hard. She dropped the gun and came at my face with the clawing fingers of her other hand. I jerked my head to the side and hit her.

I reached down and picked up the little derringer and dropped it on my jacket pocket. Then I hoisted her up onto her feet. She was groggy but not completely out. Finally I picked up her WAC bag that had slid off her shoulder. I felt like she had filled it full of bee-bee shot.

"I must give you a shock, after last night, eh?"

"You are mad!" she said through tight teeth. "What is the meaning of this thing? You will tell me now, this moment!"

"I will tell you, Goldie," I said, "but not right now. I'm expecting."

I didn't finish because what I was expecting came about. The apartment door bell sounded sharply, and knuckles banged hard on the other side. I turned Goldielocks around and walked her back the few steps to the door. I pulled it open and there stood Lieutenant Frank Bierman. Right behind him was the ever present Sergeant Goff.

"This way, Gentlemen," I said. "As I said, I turned Zara around, and still holding her arm, led the way into the living room. When Goldielocks spotted who was on the floor behind the sofa she let out a funny little hissing sound. I paid no attention though. I held her in a chair all for her, let go of her arm.

"All right with the horse-ing around, Barnes?" Bierman snapped. "I've done my part, what I promised you last night. I followed her to the bank and back here. She didn't go any place else. All right, now I'm listening. I want all of it."

"The echo to Bierman's voice was a long drawn out groan from Gordon Parrish on the floor. He pushed up slowly on his hands and knees and then just his knees. His eyes blinked stupidly at us, and then rapidly as faces became recognizable. Finally his eyes popped, and his lips worked up and down, but he seemed unable to get any words out from between them. I reached down and hooked and hoisted him up onto the sofa. He fell back on it like a sack of wet meal, his lips still working like a carp's out of water.

"Go ahead and begin, Barnes," Bierman barked. "And be sure you begin at the beginning. Who the devil is he?"

"The name is Gordon Parrish," I told him. "And as he's just joined the party, I might as well begin with him."

"Then do it!" Bierman growled when I didn't keep right on talking.

I nodded and looked at Parrish for a moment.

"Stop me if and where I go wrong," I told him. And then to Bierman, "Parrish was the client I met right after you had thrown me out of my office. He wanted to hire me to find Maurice Cardeur, who had been missing ever since he walked out of the Rankin Hotel. He was afraid something had happened to Cardeur as a result of that near scrap, and he didn't dare go to the police. He wanted to get in touch with Cardeur for reasons you'll learn as we go along with this thing. Anyway, I took the job, but didn't tell him that I knew Cardeur was dead. He found that out later from the newspapers, and when he thought back over things I'd said, he got scared. In other words, just how much did I know about a lot of things? So he got another one of them, one Franz Eulich to tail me. He was the lad I thought was your man."

I paused and gave Bierman a chance to speak, but he just nodded for me to go on.

"Eulich, of course, reported to Parrish that I'd gone to see Goldielocks, Miss Zara Zaralis," I said. "That added to his fright and confusion. By the way, Parrish, was that tavern at the corner, a d d Eulich suggest it? He seems the type."

Parrish acted as though he hadn't heard, and I didn't mind. I knew he would howl if I really went off the track.

"Parrish didn't like that at all," I said again. "He decided to really find out what I knew. When, by the way, was little at that point. Anyway, I fell for the old taxi trick. That added to his fright and confusion. By the way, Parrish, I woke up in that room I told you about. The guy who asked the questions was Eulich. Parrish was there but he didn't say a word because he was afraid I would recognize his voice. Well, I wasn't able to give the answers wanted because I didn't know them. DeFoe hadn't told me a thing. But I made a guess. I caused Parrish to believe I knew who had finished DeFoe. He thought I meant him. He let the hired thugs beat me up, strapped me of everything, and dumped me into the Erie River. That turned out bad for him, because I didn't die. Instead, I woke up in a place that is no place for a chap of my clean habits."

I paused, but Bierman didn't think that funny at all. I made a little skip it gesture, and continued.

"Yesterday when I phoned Parrish and made a date to see him, he sounded like he was close to fainting. Naturally, he had to think I meant him. He let the hired thugs beat me up, strapped me of everything, and dumped me into the Erie River. That turned out bad for him, because I didn't die. Instead, I woke up in a place that is no place for a chap of my clean habits."

"Yesterday when I phoned Parrish and made a date to see him, he sounded like he was close to fainting. Naturally, he had to think I meant him. He let the hired thugs beat me up, strapped me of everything, and dumped me into the Erie River. That turned out bad for him, because I didn't die. Instead, I woke up in a place that is no place for a chap of my clean habits."

Local Man Is Named To Aid Co. Veterans

THE NATION TODAY

By JAMES MARLOW
Washington — (AP) — I'd like to know what cops think of the business the diplomats call foreign affairs. I mean, like dealing with Joe Stalin and Mr. Molotov. Cops are very direct and down to earth. They know people, and how people act and react, and they don't have any illusions except maybe about themselves.

I used to know a whole bunch of cops, for years, covering the police beat in New Orleans, and I never got over how they could work all the angles with some fancy trimmings.

Sometimes when they wanted something very much, like getting a guy to admit a stick-up, they put in an act, a tough-guy-soft-guy act, which they used to call the old one-two.

Mr. Tough-cop would take the stick-up man into a room alone and open up with "Look, we got you nailed, so you start talking and I mean right now, and I don't want any trouble and if I get any trouble you get plenty of it and I don't have any time to spend."

But something in the stick-up man would freeze and he wouldn't give, or he couldn't give, but Mr. Tough-cop got tougher, and nothing happened. And finally, Mr. Soft-Cop came in and listened to Mr. Tough-cop and said:

"Cut it out, Joe. Take a walk. Let the guy alone, you're too tough. This guy's in a jam. He's in it up to his neck, but he's all right and you don't have to rough him around. That's all right on somebody else but you don't have to work it on him. Take a walk."

Then Mr. Soft-Cop took over, and gave the stick-up man a cigarette and said "I want to ask a few questions but let's get some coffee first." And he'd send for coffee.

And the stick-up man was so surprised he thought it was wonderful and before he knew it he opened up.

So I think about the cops in New Orleans when I read about the conferences the diplomats have with Mr. Stalin and Mr. Molotov, the Russian foreign minister.

Mr. Molotov is square-built and he looks like a pincushion captain from the back, and he has a square jaw. The stories always give the idea he's a tough man to do business with.

And just about the time the other diplomats figure in, too, tough and the whole thing's hopeless, in walks Mr. Stalin—kind of relaxed, friendly-like, easy-going, mild—and takes over.

And he gives what looks like an inch here, or a foot there, and the diplomats go away figuring maybe business would be better if they could do business with Mr. Stalin all the time.

And it may be a long time afterwards that it seems Stalin didn't give anything. And maybe that's the way the old team of Stalin and Molotov figured in the first place, since they've been working together 35 years. The old one-two with Molotov being tough and Stalin being soft if he had to.
